1. RegisNET: your library username and password

Last updated August 19, 2013

2. Your RegisNET account is your key to accessing the library’s online resources

3. Your RegisNET username and password is the same username and password you use to access your Regis email account, Sharepoint, WebAdvisor, or your online classes.

4. RegisNET

On-campus users will need to login with their RegisNET username and password to access any of the computers in the library or in the computer labs.

Once you are logged in to the computer workstation, you can access any of the library resources.

5. Click link to open database

Off-campus users are required to log-in before accessing any of the Regis Library databases.

6. The off-campus log-in page looks like this.

Enter your RegisNET information in the fields provided

7. Click the Submit button to continue

8. Click Proceed to Outside Service to enter the database

9. For most library databases, your RegisNET username and password are the only username and password you will need.

10. There are a few subject specific databases that require a special login. This will be indicated in the database description. Contact the Reference Desk to obtain the special username and password.

11. Beware! network security settings and firewalls at your place of work or at home can keep you from getting in to the database!

12. Sometimes a glitch on our end can cause problems too!

If you see a screen that asks for a login other than your RegisNET username and password, then an error has occurred.

Call or email the reference desk for help!
